There were only a few cattle on sale today. The offerings were mostly cows and heifers, which sold at Saturday's prices. The market is steady on medium and good stock, but it is difficult to sell the the poor stuffs, and buyers will only pay lowest prices for it. There is a good de mand for the better grades of stock at fair prices. The market was steady at un-

WAS THERE A FIENDISH DESIGN!

The Sensational Charges Made Against an Officer of the Whicky Trust. Has Chicago a flend in housan form! Can it be that a man of some standing and education would with the utmost coolness arrange a plan to destroy over 100 persons and some millions in property by an appalling explosion, followed by a fire so destructive that not one could escape?

This is a question to be decided by the courts. The charge is made by govern ment officers that George J. Gibson, secretary of the Distillers and Cattle Feeders company, better known as the "whisky trust," prepared an infernal machine and bribed a man to place it under the great vat in the Shufeldt distillery store room, where it would have exploded with a force that would have blown the whole vast structure to splinters. On the instant 8,000 gallons of alcohol and nearly 200,000 gallons of other high proof spirits would have been fired, and the whole block would have become a hell of blue flame.

been known also to stand at the brakes with the firemen and help "jerk her down S. De War, a presumably reliable man, a revenue gauger, makes outh that he entered into a conspiracy with Gibson to do that very thing. He produces the machine. He details every intended stage in the crime, for which he was to receive $25,000; and, what is of far more weight, he displays letters in Gibson's own handwriting which certainly prove some understanding. He also wrote in the presence of witnesses letter to Gibson, in which he specified the crime. Gibson was seen to take that letter from the Peoria postoffice, and in response to it he went to Chicago and met De War.

If, as Gibson's friends allege, it is a conspiracy against him, it is a wonderfully porters say "Gibson is a fine looking man, five feet ten inches in height and well built, hitherto regarded as of the strictest integrity."

The "whisky trust" was formed in 1887, with headquarters at Peoria, Ills., and has out certificates exceeding in face value $30,000,000, but now worth less than half by reason of the decline. Among the firms that refused to enter the trust was that of the Maryland state museum with a petri-fied cyster, which weighs three pounds and Chicago covers nearly four acres, and now has an output of 25,000 gallons a day, be sides 23,000 barrels in stock. Could all this be destroyed, say the United States officials, the trust could raise its prices and its certificates go to par.

It is claimed that two previous attempts have been made with dynamite to destroy the distillery, but most of the facts were kept secret. The United States attorney, solicitor and marshal have managed the case, yet the highest charge on which they could hold Gilson was that of attempted bribery of a gauger, and the ball was but $20,000. He easily furnished it, and is now preparing for what must be a vigorous defense. On the same evidence the Cook county grand jury unanimously voted an
